Table 2. Appropriateness of In-Residence CH-R Service Delivery

Instructions: When requesting in-residence CH-R services, the response to one (1) of the following qualifications must be YES.

YES	NO	QUALIFICATION
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	1. Individual is elderly (i.e. 65+ years)
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	2. Individual is medically frail*
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	3. Individual presents with complex behavioral needs

*A medical frailty diagnosis alone may not indicate that an individual is appropriate for in-residence CH-R services. Documentation supporting the delivery of in-residence CH-R services from the individual's physician or other health care professional is required to document that the individual would benefit from in-residence services because of his/her/their health status.

Complex behavioral needs alone may not indicate that an individual is appropriate for in-residence CH-R services. A Behavior Support Plan is required to support the delivery of these service in the individual's residence.

Evaluation to Receive Community Habilitation-Residential (CH-R) in a Certified Residence

Instructions: When requesting in-residence CH-R services, the response to the following must be YES. If the response is NO, then the delivery of in-residence CH-R services is not permitted. (The Care Manager must document that the individual and/or the family/representative when appropriate, have chosen and consent to receiving in-residence CH-R services. The Care Manager must document this in a separate consent that is incorporated into the Life Plan or in the Life Plan itself, in the narrative in section I, in the special considerations in section II or III, or in the meeting summary in section VI).
